

Conflict Materials Policy

* “Conflict minerals” originating from the Democratic Republic of the Congo (DRC) are sometimes mined and sold, “under the control of armed groups” to “finance conflict characterized by extreme levels of violence”

Some of these minerals can make their way into the supply chains of the products used around the world, including those in the ANPR manufacturing industry. As part of MAV’s commitment to corporate responsibility and respecting human rights in our own operations and in our global supply chain, it is MAV’s goal to use tantalum, tin, tungsten and gold in our products that do not directly or indirectly finance or benefit armed groups in the DRC or adjoining countries. MAV expects our suppliers to have in place policies and due diligence measures that will enable us to reasonably assure that products and components supplied to us containing conflict minerals are DRC conflict free. MAV expects our suppliers to comply with the Electronic Industry Citizenship Coalition (EICC) Code of Conduct and conduct their business in alignment with MAV’s supply chain responsibility expectations.

In support of this policy, MAV will:

- Exercise due diligence with relevant suppliers consistent with the OECD Due Diligence Guidance for Responsible Supply Chains of Minerals from Conflict-Affected and High-Risk Areas and encourage our suppliers to do likewise with their suppliers.
- Provide, and expect our suppliers to cooperate in providing, due diligence information to confirm the tantalum, tin, tungsten, and gold in our supply-chain are “conflict free”
- Collaborate with our suppliers and others on industry-wide solutions to enable products that are DRC conflict free.

Adopted: April 2016

Updated: Feb 2021

**“Conflict minerals” as defined by Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) rules is a broad term which means columbitetantalite (coltan), cassiterite, gold, wolframite, or their derivatives which are limited to tantalum, tin or tungsten, regardless of whether these minerals finance conflict in the Democratic Republic of the Congo (DRC) or adjoining countries.